HOTELS FOR WORKING-PEOPLE.

PLANS FILED FOR ONE OF THE STRUCTURES-THE DESIGNS OF D. O. MILLS.

Plans for the erection of a ten-story and basement brick hotel, to cost $700,000, were filed with the Building Department yesterday. The hotel will be erected on the south side of Bleecker-st., from Sullivan to Thompson-st., by D. O. Mills, of No. 634

This is in keeping with the plans of Mr. Mills, who some time ago decided to build two hotels of this kind, one on the West Side and one on the East Side, which will be run on an economical basis for the benefit of the respectable hardworking classes who cannot afford to pay the prices demanded at other hotels, and who at cheap boarding-houses find few home comforts. These hotels will have baths and free reading-rooms, and restaurants which will

The site upon which the structure for which plans have been filed will be built is known as Depau Row, and was at one time the property of A. T. Stewart. In consists of a long row of three-story brick dwellings, with a large veranda extending slong the entire front of the buildings, and was at one time inhabited by well-known New-Yorkers. Of late the dwellings have been occupied by poor peo-ple and for stores, and the property has taken off materially in appearance and value.

MR. KREHBIEL LECTURES TO WOMEN.

H. E. Krehbiel lectured at the Women's University Club, No. 23 West Forty-fourth-st., yesterday afternoon. The attendance was so large that many were unable to get into the hall. Mr. Krehbiel's subject was "Musical Criticism," and the lecture was illustrated on the planoforte by Henry Holden Huss Miss Helen Dawes Brown, president of the club, and Mrs. G. G. Trask, vice-president, received the guests, and Miss Marianna Woodhull presided at the tea which followed the lecture.

H. C. BUNNER MUCH BETTER.

Ean Francisco, March 28 .- H. C. Bunner, Edito of "Puck," who has been seriously ill in this city for about three weeks, has improved materially in the last day or two. It is thought by his physician that he will be able to start for New-York by next Wednesday.

PROGRESS ON BRONX GARDENS.

ACCOMPLISHED The collection of native fungi of Dr. Ellis, of New-Jersey, which has been purchased for the Botanical Gardens at Bronx Park, is pronounced by experts to be one of the most valuable collec-Brown, who has seen the Ellis collection, said that of the Botanical Gardens, as it contains invaluable information on the subject of diseases of plants

Much progress has been made recently in laying out the Botanical Gardens, and arrangements have been perfected by which about one thousand trees will be planted between the Gardens and the rail-road, which will not only beautify the edge of the reservation, but will form a necessary screen. These trees will be planted with a view to having some of them become a part of the permanent system, but others of rapidly growing species will be set out, because the screen is a pressing neces-

Plans for permanent buildings are also being drawn, and it is expected that they will be sub-mitted for examination soon, and that actual building will be started immediately after the plans have been decided upon. Much attention has been bestowed by the managers of the Gardens on the sewerage system, and the plans which have been adopted and are now being carried out will make the Gardens perfect in that respect. The city sewerage system has been kept steadily in mind in all the plans, and arrangements have been made to the end that the two systems will not clash, but, on the contrary, will work well, one with the other. The $10,000 which has been appropriated for improving the roads will be put to good use in building paths and roads through the park. It was feared by some that points of historical interest and places of natural beauty might suffer through the development of the Gardens, but those who are at the head of the work say that every point of interest will be carefully preserved, and that the landscape gardening will only tend to bring out in stronger and better colors the natural beauties of the place. will be started immediately after the plans

PASSOVER FEAST CELEBRATED.

THE JEWISH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED IN STNA-GOGUES AND HOMES.

At sunset last evening the anniversary of the birthday of Jewish liberty was celebrated by ser-vices in all the synagogues and by rejoicings and merry-making in all orthodox Jewish homes. The feast of Passover, the oldest festival known, com-memorates the release of the Jews from bondage in Egypt and their entrance into the responsibilities of a nation free to worship its own God and to work out its own salvation. The services at the syna-gogues last night were brief. The real beginning of the festival was celebrated in the homes. There every family, united as far as possible, shared the every family, united as far as possible, shared the feast provided and sang the songs of joy and praise that have been sung on like occasions for more than 2.000 years. The youngest male child able to speak in Hebrew, recites the "Marnish-Tarno" as the bitter herbs and almonds that form part of the fare are divided. The feast proper is not enjoyed until the symbolical feast of herbs and thick maizos have been tasted by all. The paschal lamb and the haif-cooked victuals carried from the land of bundage were symbolized by the scorched bone of a lamb which was passed around from hand to hand. This synagogues will be open and services will be held every day in the coming week.

BRYANT PARK RESERVOIR USELESS.

ENGINEER BIRDSALL SAYS THAT IT COULD EASILY BE SPARED FOR THE PUBLIC LIBRARY SITE.

Chief Engineer Birdsall, of the Croton Aqueduct, Chief Engineer Birdsail, of the Croion Aqueduct, yesterday repeated his statement me le in The Tribune on Thursday as to the ease with which the old reservoir in Bryant Park could be dispensed with and the site used by the New-York Public Library. He said: "I placed myself on record in 1881 when I stated that the reservoir could be removed without the property of the water service of this city. ## ROUGH USAGE OF A BARK.

THE WHITE CLOUD BLOWN FROM SANDY HOOK TO BERMUDA AND BADLY BATTERED.

The American bark White Cloud arrived here yesterday from Bermuda in tow of the tug C. W. Morse, having been severely damaged in the recent gales. The bark left Pernambuco on January 14 with a cargo of sugar. On February 6 she put into Barbadoes to have her pumps repaired, and two days later sailed for New-York. On March 3 the White Cloud, according to her skipper, Captain Carter, was within four miles of Sandy Hook Lightship, but was within four miles of Sanuy 1100k Lightship, but he could get no pilot and was forced by the rough weather to put out again. The following day the bark encountered a furious hurricane from the north-west, which continued with unabated fury for three days. The skipper was obliged to turn tail and run before the storm, finally bringing up near Bermuda, which port he made on March 2. At the height of the hurricane the fore-topgallant mast, with all attached, was carried away, as was also the main masthead above the hounds and the mizzen topmast. The bulwarks were badly stove and a number of salls were lost. It was with great difficulty that the vessel was kept from foundering until the men could chop away the wreckage which covered the acek or hing alongside. Captain Carter was in lutitude 33, longitude 63, when the storm subsided, and made 33, longitude 65, when the storm subsided, and made Bermuda under foresail and topsail. # MR. REED'S CANDIDACY.

HIS DANGERS.

From The New-York Recorder.

Reed is not likely to have a solid New-England behind him, but he may come closer to it than any of his rivals believes. His disadvantage in the convention is likely to be found in the fact that he has made enemies as well as friends in his aggressive public career, and that he may be treated as a sectional candidate. In the latter case he would be bound to go to the wall, because New-England is not a dominant influence in Republican politics. From The New-York Recorder.

THE PREDICTION OF A FRIEND.

From The Baltimore American. From The Baitimore American.
Yesterday's convention was the formal beginning of the Reed campaign. He held his friends from organized efforts until then, because he was too busy at his work in Washington to risk its interests by attention to a more personal matter, although this was really as broad a thing as the Speakership, because the call for Reed is National, and the country has about made up its mind to cievate him to the White House. The sentiment in Maryland is for him without the shadow of a doubt, and when the time comes the South will rise spontaneously to his rame.

HE MAY NOT HOLD ALL NEW-ENGLAND.

More remains to be done if the New-England delegation is to be railled as a solid phalanx for Reed at St. Louis. There is need of active and zealous missionary work in Connecticut, where an element of the Republican party, headed by ex-Governor Buikeley, is said to be retained in the McKinley cause, it behooves the friends of Mr. Reed in the rest of New-England to enter at once on a vigorous campaign in the Nutmeg State.

HE HAS LOST STRENGTH.

From The Utica Press.

Reed, who was much talked about two months ago, is now reckoned only as a possibility, and has confessedly lost considerable strength since Congress

HOW THE CONTEST LOOKS.

From The Providence Journal.

Many things may happen between now and the meeting of the convention, but it looks more and more as if the contest were destined to narrow down to McKinley and Reed, with the Allison and Morton forces, together with those of Quay and perhaps of the other minor candidates, Joining to prevent the nomination of the Ohio aspirant. SOUND MONEY'S CAUSE GROWING. From The Philadelphia Record.

From The Philadelphia Record.

There is a turn of the tide toward sound money.

GREETED AT THE PIER BY MANY SALVA-TIONISTS.

SHE HAS NO TERMS TO OFFER HER BROTHER, BUT THINKS THAT IF HE WOULD GO TO SEE

HIS PATHER ALL WOULD BE WELL her husband, takes command of the Salvation Army in this country, arrived yesterday afternoon on the American Line steamship St. Louis, and received an enthusiastic welcome from a large number of Salvation Army members upon her arrival at the pier. She was accompanied by her two children, Kristodas Booth-Tucker and Motie Booth-Tucker; Major J. Malon and Captain Gircopazzi, and all except the children were Tucker appeared to be much fatigued, but she was greatly cheered by a cable dispatch, which she received at Quarantine telling her that her child was much improved in health. Among the prominent officers gathered at the pier to receive their new chief were Brigadier Bown, Major blonel Eadle, Brigadier Richard Evans, Major thereof. Storrs, Staff Captain Crafts and Brigadier Perry.

Colonel Eadle, Brigadier Richard Evans, Major Storrs, Staff Captain Crafts and Brigadier Perry. A number of the rank and file swelled the crowled to goodly numbers. Just before the gangplank was run aboard the big steamship, a number of the happy Salvationists broke into song, while those aboard the steamship cried deep "Amens."

GREETING FROM HER BROTHER.

As Mrs. Booth-Tucker came down, or rather up, the gangplank, she was met by Major Lindsey, of the Volunteers, who handed her a letter of fraternal greeting from her brother, Ballington Booth. The major was in his new regimentals. The party then made their way to one of the private offices at the entrance to the picr, where Miss Eva Booth, the Commissioner, soon appeared. The two sisters embraced each other. Both Mrs. Booth-Tucker and the Commissioner, soon appeared. The two sisters embraced each other. Both Mrs. Booth-Tucker and the Commissioner, soon appeared to the exchange of greetings, Mrs. Booth-Tucker entered a carriage which was waiting for her, and in company with her sister and Major Lewis, her secretary, drove direct to the Army garrison, at No. 127 West Thirteenthst. This house, which has hitherto served as a barracks for the superior officers of the staff, will be converted into a home for Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker. It was expected that Mrs. Booth-Tucker and the converted into a home for Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker. It was expected that Mrs. Booth-Tucker are the following:

**The second section of the amendment reads:

The second section of the Linds the excess of who has received a full and honorable discharge therefrom, shall be exampt from sextice on the land in the National Guard or Militia. The officers thereof shall be duit out the excess of the section as the collect in the collect in the collect in the Army garde and relations and receive the same articles, rules and requisitions a be converted into a home for Mr. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker. It was expected that Mrs. Booth-Tucker would visit the Salvation Army Headquarters in West Fourteenth-st. as soon as possible after her arrival in this city. To this end elaborate preparations were made to give her a fitting reception. Both the interior and the outside of the big building were profusely decorated. From the numerous windows facing the street several hundred large and small American flags were displayed, while the corridors and stairways inside were festooned with streamers of the National colors. Over the main entrance was hung a huge white banner, bearing the words, "American Salvationists welcome their new leaders."

Mrs. Tucker is a poor sailor, and she said yeswhen he put back on the pilot-boat, until Fire Island was sighted she had not been out of her bunk, and had for most of the voyage been under the care of the doctor. In face and build Mrs. Booth-Tucker possesses all the characteristics of the Booth family. She has the same tall, slim figure as her brothers and sisters, with sharp, prominently outlined features. But she coming an important factor in the Salvation Army work of this country. Mrs. Tucker is the second daughter of General Booth, and was born in London thirty-four years ago. She has de-voted the greater part of her life to the work of the army, and before her marriage was in England. She was married to Commissioner Hall, London. On the night of the wedding 4,000 people paid admission to the hall, and on army's work in India. Immediately after the land. Since that time she has held jointly with her husband the post of foreign secretary of the Salvation Army.

After resting for a few hours to recover from the fatigue of the ocean voyage, Mrs. Booth-Tucker received a Tribune reporter last night and conversed somewhat freely upon the policy she intended to pursue in the administration of the Army.

MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER'S PLANS. Asked whether she intended to introduce new methods into the Army's work, she replied that Salvationists were always open to advantageous Salvationists were always open to advantageous innovations, but that, so far as the system of the Army was concerned, it would be rigidly conducted on the same lines as herefolore.

"What will be your attitude toward the Volunteers?" she was asked.

"The Salvation Army will look upon the organization as it would upon any other religious body, and we shall continue our own particular work without consideration or reference to the new organization."

organization."

"Aside from personal or family feelings, will you say what your father's opinion is on his sen Ballington's new departure?"

"Well, I can hardly say. You see, my father only came home from his tour a few days before only came home from his tour a few days before I left England, and there was not much opportunity to consider the situation thoroughly. Not only that, but the General was not well versed in the circumstances of the controversy. Of course, he received many dispatches, but they were not explanatory. As he was just closing a long journey to India and Australia, we in London felt justified in veiling the true facts from his knowledge for the time being, and consequently it is only lately that everything has been laid before him. No, my father is not much concerned at Ballington's new movement or its possible consequences to the Army in this country, because he hopes still to win my brother back to his allegiance."

"Are you at liberty to tell the people of America the nature of the communications and assurances you are prepared to hold out to Bal-lington Booth?"

WANTS BALLINGTON TO VISIT HIS FATHER.

"I am instructed only to bring the influence of love and prayer upon him. My great object is to induce him to go and see the General, his father. I feel confident if he would only do this, all would be well. But you may say that I am in no way authorized to make any promises to him or to offer him another command in the Army. If my brother would agree to take a certain line of action, my father, I know, would be prepared to give him every opportunity in the Army." "May I ask what that particular line of action the reporter inquired. TO VISIT HER BROTHER.

"I am not prepared to say anything regarding that matter. Let it suffice to say that Ballington must first of all go and see the General." Mrs. Booth-Tucker, in the course of further conversation, said she had received a letter when she landed from her brother, but that she did not feel justified in making it public. She said she would visit Ballington Booth in the next few feel justified in making it public. She said she would visit Ballington Booth in the next few days, and would probably see him at his home at Montclair. She refused to confirm or deny the report that Mr. Booth had stipulated in his letter that he could see her only in the presence of a third person. Mrs. Booth-Tucker added that she expected no difficulty in the transfer of the property, and that the necessary formalities would be performed as soon as her husband has taken out his first naturalization papers.

London, March 28.—The Rev. W. J. Gillespie, a missionary in India, charges Booth-Tucker, who was recently appointed to the command of the Salvation Army in the United States, with grossly missiating the strength of the Salvationists in India. Mr. Booth-Tucker said that the Army adherents in Gujerat numbered 75,000 and that the genuine converts numbered 75,000 mr. Gillespie declares that if Mr. Booth-Tucker will produce 100 converts he will subscribe a rupee a head for the lot. In another part of India where the Salvationists boasted of their great work another missionary named Thomson could not find a single Salvation my convert.

AMENDMENTS TO CONGRESSMAN CUM-MINGS'S BILL PREPARED BY COL-ONEL SATTERLEE AND COM-MANDER MILLER.

Colonel Herbert L. Satterlee, the president of the Naval Reserve Association of the State of New-York, and J. W. A REASON WHY THE BRITISH PAPERS SHOULD NOT GET EXCITED OVER THE PRINCE OF WALES'S ELECTION TO THE THIRTEEN CLUB.

The English public will breathe one vast sigh of relief when it is known that the fears which resulted from the mixing up of the Prince of Wales with Gazette," were in all probability somewhat graver than were warranted by the facts in the case. THE SCHOOL BOARD BEATEN.

COLORED CHILDREN OF JAMAICA, LONG ISLAND MAY ATTEND WHITE SCHOOLS.

Henry A. Montford, of Jamaica, Long Island, secured an order from Judge Barnard on Friday night overruling the demurrer interposed by the Poard of Education against the granting of a writ of alternative mandamus compelling them to allow colored children in Jamaica to attend the same schools as white children. There are two schools, The colored people deny the right of the Board to prohibit their children from attending the white school. The action which was decided against the Board is that brought by John T. Jackson and other colored residents in September last. Their children tried to get in the white school, but admission was denied and the mandamus proceedings were begun.

The colored children are not being sent to the school to which they have been assigned, and Stephen White, two children of John Cisco, who was fined $5 on Thursday for not sending his son Jacob to school; one child of Joseph White and one

Jacob to school; one cand of Joseph white and one of Jacob Minfield.

These cases will come up before Judge Wood. Cleco says he has not yet paid his fine, and that many leading lawyers have written him offering to take his case without pay. Cleco says he is a tuxpayer, and if he cannot send his children to the white school they will not go to any.

AN UNKNOWN MAN KILLED.

An unknown man, about forty years old, with brown hair and mustache and short beard, was killed last night shortly after 8 o'clock by a train on the New-York, New-Haven and Hartford Railroad, near Van Nest Station. The dead man was dressed in a dark suit, brown overcoat, black soft, hat, elastic galiers, with gum shoes over them.

PROMINENT ARRIVALS AT THE HOTELS.

AMBASSADOR UHL IN BERLIN.

THE NEW REPRESENTATIVE OF THE UNITED STATES MAY NOT BE PRESENTED TO THE KAISER BEFORE MAY 1.

Berlin, March 28.-Edwin F. Uhl, United States Ambassador to Germany, with his family, arrived in Berlin this afternoon, and was met at the Lehrte railway station by the entire staff of the embassy. The Ambassador and his family were at once driven to the Hotel Kaiserhof. Mr. Uhl told a reporter of the United Press that he and his family had a spiendid ocean passage, and that he was looking forward with keen interest to his sojourn in Berlin.

Mr. Uhl will, in consequence of the Emperor's movements, be unable to be presented to the Kajser before May 1. According to diplomatic rule, Mr. Ser before May 1. According to diplomatic rule, Mr. Uhl cannot sign passports and other documents in an official capacity until he has been presented to the Emperor, though he may otherwise perform the functions of an ambassador. Freiherr Marschall von Bieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, is likely to stretch a point, however, and hold that Mr. Uhl's signature is valid before his presentation to the Kaiser.

OBITUARY.

JOHN D. M'INTOSH. John D. McIntosh, who had lived for more than forty-two years in the Seventh Ward of Brooklyn, forty-two years in the Seventh Ward of Brooklyn, died on Friday afternoon at his home, No. 83 Kentave., after an illness of several weeks. He was a well-known Democrat, was born in Ireland, and was sixty-four years old. He settled in the Seventh Ward and contributed largely to its development. Mr. McIntosh once ran for Alderman, but for many years he was superintendent of the Major Knapp Lithographing Company. He was a member of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church, and his charitable disposition was well known in the district where he lived. Mr. McIntosh was a widower, and leaves three daughters and three sons. One of the latter, Edward J. McIntosh, is a member of the Democratic General Committee in the Second District of the Seventh Ward. Funeral services will be held to-morrow.

Benjamin Palmer died at his home at No. 31 Fort Greene Place, Brooklyn, yesterday morning. He was a native of London, where he was born in 1808, and with his wife came to this country in 1848. With the exception of six years spent in the West, he the exception of six years epent in the West, he had since that time been a resident of Brooklyn. For many years he was a member of the firm of Joseph Wild & Co., New-York, but he retired from business in 1873. He was identified with the First Baptist Church in Pierrepont-st., and afterward with the Central Baptist in Adelphi-st. His death was due to a fall while entering the Central, formerly the Centennial Church, on March 20. Mr. Palmer's father also died from the effects of an accident, having been thrown from a coach in England.

THE REV. G. F. M'MURRAY.

Scranton, Penn., March 28.-The Rev. Gerald F. McMurray, rector of the Roman Catholic church at Dunmore for twenty-four years, died to-day, after an illness of less than a week. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1868, being one the first priests ordained by Bishop O'Hara. He was fifty-five years of are. priests ordained five years of age.

JAMES J. POST.

James J. Post died on Thursday at his home in Port Richmond, Staten Island. Mr. Post was born in Deckertown, N. J., on October 17, 1826. Soon after the New-York and Eric Railroad opened he became connected with the road, and was appointed general the road to take the first trip when the road opened to Dunkirk, which was its terminus at that time.

to Dunkirk, which was its terminus at that time. Among the prominent guests invited on the trip was Daniel Webster. Mr. Post held that place for forty-two years, when he resigned to go to the Baltimore and Ohio, with which road he remained until his death.

He had always been active in church work, and from the time he was converted he was deacon of different Buptist churches in Jersey City, Passale, Brooklyn, New-York and at Port Richmond. He leaves a widow and two daughters, his eldest daughter being the widow of General Thomas W. Conway. The funeral will be held this afternoon at the Park Baptist Church, Port Richmond. Burial will be at Goshen, N. Y., to-morrow.

JUDGE JAMES DENNON REYMERT. Los Angeles, Cal., March 28 .- Judge James Dennon Reymert, who died at his home in Alhambra, near this city, on Tuesday evening from Bright's disease, at the age of seventy-four and was buried yesterday, had a notable career. He was a native of Norway, and he claimed royal descent. After working in the copper mines in Wales and graduating from a law school at Edinburgh, he came to America. He rettied in the wilds of Wisconsin crisis is equal to that of his stock in trade. He said calmly and with no trace of excitement:

There is no doubt about the genuineness of the Prince of Wales's acceptance of his election to honorary membership in our club. If you will call on Captain William Fowler, who is the Most Exalted Savior of the Shekels of the Thirteen Club, you may see it for yourself.

I do not think that the English will incur the enmity of Spain as a result of the affair, continued the Lord High Pencil Pusher with a grin. The club is not a political organization. The clining in the practice of law. He discovered the famous Silver King mine in Arizona, which made him a fortune.

Boston, March 28.-Nahum J. Baldwin, widely known as "Grandsire" Baldwin, died here yester-day at the age of seventy-two years. He was a familiar figure in the once popular "Old Folks' Con-mons Hamilton, widow of Samuel Hamilton, died at her home in this city this morning, eighty-nine years old. She was a wealthy woman and a bene-factor of the Centre Church, to which she gave a window in memory of her husband, and the organ, the largest in the city.
